Service Industry Labels

It is critical to get the word out for restaurants that have delivery or curbside pickup. Labels are sure-fire ways to communicate if a location is open for business. Have labels placed on take-out containers to assure the customer their food was prepared hot and then sealed for their consumption. Labels can also be used for any type of promotion going on with any food service to keep customers coming back.

Sanitization Labels

A simple label with the right design can go a long way with anyone. It's the same with today's stumbling blocks. Make the customer feel safe and protected with a label announcing that a car or hotel room has been sanitized prior to their visit.

Packaging Labels

Also consider a product packaging label – the most perfect example is for hand sanitizer bottles. This can also be used for oils, grocery food products and signage for any facility.
